

Being An Effective Chair

A one-day workshop to develop your skills in chairing farm advisory boards

*Are you interested in gaining the communication skills to effectively chair a Farm Advisory Board?
Do you regularly work with farm families to develop their business strategy?*

Then this workshop is for you.

Farm Advisory Boards are increasing in popularity in the agricultural sector. They provide an opportunity for businesses to develop strategy, manage risk, transition between generations and review achievements.

Developing the communication skills to be an independent chair is essential for advisors undertaking this role.

This one day workshop will build skills in:

- Building trust with the family, and developing trust between family members at the board table
- Understanding the decision making process – what underpins it and how to manage the process
- Delivering an effective facilitation process to build consensus in decision making
- Listening and questioning to enable deeper understanding of family values and goals
- Managing the family dynamics and emotion
- Dealing with potential challenges and conflicts that may arise
